A MILK PLANT FEASIBLE HERE

PROPER SENTIMENT IMPORTANT, DAIRY COMMISSIONER SAYS.

BETTER COWS NEEDED

Plenty of Money at Present Market Prices If Production Is Efficient, Speaker Declares.

A milk products plant is perfectly feasible for Maryville, if the actual producers—the farmers—can be sufficiently interested, members of the Round Table Club were told today by E. G. Bennett, state dairy commissioner.

The members of the club and several guests heard the visitor with evident approval.

The commissioner gave special attention here to establishment of a plant to make powdered milk, the making of which he declared was rapidly becoming an important industry.

The making of powdered milk was described as the utilizing of skimmed milk as a by-product, while the cream can be shipped or made locally into butter. It is being used in increasing quantities by bakers, ice cream makers, sausage manufacturers and in other lines in which milk is used.

The most profitable form of marketing remains to sell the milk direct to the consumers, but the saturation point is easily reached in smaller communities, the speaker said.

He described recent developments which have brought the powdered milk branch of the industry to the fore. Other possible factories he discussed make condensed milk, cheese, casein and sugar of milk.

A powdered milk factory here, Mr. Bennett said, could be started with a production of 45,000 pounds a day, which could be produced by 3,000 cows.

"Sell" Dairying Easily.

"It is never any trouble to 'sell' the business men on the subject of dairying," said Mr. Bennett. "It is one of the things that brings in a dependable income the year round."

The reason farmers frequently fail to grow enthusiastic about the industry, he declared, is that the average farmer regards dairying as a "chore", and sees in the development of the industry only an increase in his "overtime" after the regular day's work.

"He milks four or five cows a day and imagines he's already in the dairy business," the comissioner pointed out.

"Under the old conditions, when the farmer's women folks made the cream into butter themselves and then had to sell it for 10 to 12½ cents a pound, there wasn't much incentive to dairying," he continued. "But the coming of the centralized creamery has relieved him of the labor and provided him with a market for all his product.

"It is a matter of distribution and storage. The sale now can be spread out over the whole year so that there is a steady, dependable revenue. The farmer received last year an average of 40 cents a pound for his butter fat."

Milk producers who complain that this price is too low forget the days in which they sold the finished butter for not more than 15 cents a pound.

Needs Better Cows.

"Of course we want to do all we can to improve his market, but what the farmer of Missouri needs now is better cows," the commissioner declared.

Don't Blame Market.

"Complaints about the market will never justify inefficiency. Cows producing only 130 pounds of butter fat a year won't make any money for the farmer if he gets $1 a pound. The farmer must look to his own shortcomings. He must provide for better breeding, better care, better feeding. Then he will equalize himself with Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and the other prosperous dairy sections.

Meet the Cow.

"It is a fine thing for the business man to get acquainted with the cow. You don't know enough about it. If you did, you would have had a plant here long ago."

The speaker pointed out that the average factory seeking to locate in the small towns demanded a bonus, while all the milk products plant requires is proper conditions and sentiment.

The possibility of increased consumption of milk and milk products, he asserted, is enormous. The United States, he said, is probably the smallest consumer at present among the great nations.

Nevada, Mo., Boy Is Killed at Fort Sill

Accidental Burst of Machine Gun Fire Strikes Richard McCormick, 20, in Abdomen.

Fort Sill, Okla., July 13.—Killed when an accidental burst of machine gun fire struck him in the abdomen as he was preparing the piece for range target practice, the body of Richard McCormick, 20, of Nevada, Mo., was being returned to his home today in a flag draped casket.

Young McCormick was a member of headquarters battery 203d coast artillery, attached with training troops of the Missouri National Guard in summer encampment here.

The youth died in an ambulance bearing him to the post hospital. Last military rites were observed before the casket was carried to the train on a caisson.

May Move School of Fire.

Washington, July 13.—Decision on the proposal to move the Army school from Fort Sill, Okla., will not be reached by the War Department for at least a year, officials here believe.

GOSPEL TEAM FULLY BOOKED

COLLEGE GROUP DATED FOR EVERY REMAINING SUNDAY.

GOOD MEETINGS HELD

Young Religious Workers At Barnard And Quitman Last Week.—Gaynor And Skidmore Next.

The Y. M. C. A. gospel team of the State Teachers College, headed by Karl Kettering of the College faculty, began its series of devotional meetings last Sunday when meetings were held at Barnard in the morning and at Quitman in the evening. Although the meetings had not been unusually well advertised, there were fairly large congregations at both meetings, and the boys were cordially invited to return whenever they wished.

The team is composed of the following young men: Forrest Shaffer, Braymer, Clifford Evans, Jameson, Gerald Carroll, Grant City, Sam Urban, Maryville, Roy Dickman, Chula, and Homer Needies, Ravenwood.

Interest in gospel team work was on the decline all last year, but it is being revived with a real zest now. The team this summer is now booked for every Sunday until school is out. July 17 the boys will go to Gaynor in the morning and to Skidmore in the evening; July 24 they will be at Burlington Junction in the morning and will be at the Methodist Church in Maryville in the evening; July 31 they will go to Arkoe and to Island City.

Plans are being made to make the meeting at the Methodist Church in Maryville a big one. It will be a service especially for college people, consisting of music and speaking. The Y. W. C. A. will have charge of the music, and the gospel team will provide the speakers.

The general theme of the team's devotional meeting is, "Christianity, the Only True Religion." There are four ten-minute speeches on the program, all of which hinge around the general theme. The following are the subjects used: "The Character of Christ," "Miracles," "Christianity in Comparison with Other Religions" and "The Authenticity of the Scriptures."

Plan Appeal in Vare Senate Vote Contest

Hope Senate Recount in Appealing Dismissal of Suit for Seizure of Ballots.

Washington, July 13. — Attempts to save the Pennsylvania Vare-Wilson senatorial contest votes for a senate recount by means of a court appeal was planned here today by Senate officials and Senator King, Democrat, Utah, a member of the Reed election investigation committee.

King asked Senator James A. Reed, Democrat, Missouri, chairman of the committee, to come here today to confer on the decision of Federal Judge J. Whiteaker Thompson of Philadelphia dismissing the committee's suit for seizure of Delaware county's ballots.

Jennie Garrett Home.

Miss Jennie Garrett returned last night from Los Gatos, Cal., to spend the remainder of the summer with her mother, Mrs. William Garrett, and other relatives. Miss Garrett is music supervisor in the Los Gatos public schools.

BIRTHS LEAD DURING JUNE

NEW BABIES NUMBER 52; DEATHS, 22.

EPIDEMICS DIE OUT

County Health Report Shows 209 Persons Visited Office During Last Month.

Births in Nodaway County led over deaths 52 to 22 in June the report of the Nodaway County Health Department revealed today. In June 1926 the deaths numbered 17 and the births 45.

The epidemics of contagious diseases are dying out, the report showed. Only one case of scarlet fever was reported during the month, two cases of diphtheria and six cases of measles.

The health department also reports two new sewer connections during the month and two new water connections.

Two hundred and nine persons visited the office during the month. Three lectures were given with an attendance of 95. Bulletins distributed numbered 650. Six newspaper articles on health work appeared in the paper.

Sanitary inspection was made of 15 private premises. Six public premises were examined. One examination was made for lunacy and fifteen prisoners were examined.

Fourteen visits were made to cases of communicable diseases and nine cases were isolated.

Two persons were treated for the prevention of goiter. Three prenatal cases were given advice. Three home visits in prenatal cases were made. Fifteen infant and pre-school children were examined and fifteen office consultations were reported. Seven home visits were made. Thirteen homes were visited for the examination of children of school age. Two talks on hygiene were given. Two examinations for diphtheria were made.

CUYHOGA COST ESTIMATED AT ONLY $1,061.75

Commission Reports On Proposed Drainage District West of Burlington Junction.

The cost for straightening Cuyhoga Creek and building a dyke, a short distance west of Burlington Junction, has been estimated at $1,061.75, by the board of viewers and their engineer. It was erroneously reported as $10,061.75 in yesterday's Democrat-Forum.

The commission composed of William Blackford, Samuel J. Smith and E. O. Gray, with Joseph E. Reese, engineer viewed the proposed drainage district the fore part of the month, and estimated the cost of improvements and proceedings, to drain the land overflowed by Cuyhoga Creek.

The commission was appointed by the county court on petition of property owners in the proposed district. The report has been filed yesterday with Fred Wright, county clerk.

CORN HERE IS 59 PER CENT

NODAWAY CONDITION REPORTED FAR BELOW AVERAGE.

WHEAT 63 PER CENT

Probable Yield Is Estimated at 21 Bushels an Acre.—Oats Only Half Normal.

The July estimates of Nodaway county farmers, just compiled, shows corn here as 59 per cent of a July normal, compared to a five-year average of 80 per cent, from which the five-year average yield has been 35 bushels an acre.

The harvest condition of local wheat was 63 per cent, with probable yield of 11 bushels from 13,139 acres. Some other county crop conditions are oats 51 per cent; hay 76 per cent and pasures 94 per cent.

The appraisal of the Nodaway county corn crop puts it below all adjoining counties except Worth, where the condition is reported as 51 per cent. Andrew county corn is given as 71 per cent of normal; Gentry 73 per cent; Holt 69 per cent, Atchison 63 per cent and Buchanan 70 per cent. The Nodaway county figure is even below the state average.

The county estimate by the state-federal crop reporting service is based upon reports from twenty-five farmers representing all the townships in the county. Each reports the condition of his own crop, and the average of their reports is taken as the average for the county.

Several counties in the state report corn as good as 80 per cent. The maximum is 88 per cent, in Phelps county.

The Missouri corn crop, with 64 per cent condition of July normal upon 5,824,000 acres planted, indicated 130,158,000 bushels against 176,011,000 bushels from 6,471,000 acres in 1926, with present indications for 22.4 bushels acre yield against 27.2 bushels last year, according to the detailed report of E. A. Logan of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics and Jewel Mayes of the Missouri State Board of Agriculture.

Lowest in Years.

The 1927 Missouri corn condition is the lowest July in 61 years, excepting July 1924 when it was two points lower than at this time. It is the lowest total acreage since 1904. The crop is from 10 to 30 days late in western and central sections, 30 days late in northeastern and eastern, while fully 60 days late in southeast counties. Much replanting was necessary, and 6 per cent of the total state crop was planted after July 1, while in southeastern counties fully 33 per cent of 1927 crop was yet to be planted.

Most corn has good color and is clean, but growth is irregular, as some fields are just lately up while a scattering few are laying by. Corn grew rapidly during last week of June and first days of July. A few farmers in river bottoms were planting 90-day corn in second week of July. Condition of 64 per cent compares with 5-year average of 80 per cent, from which the yield has averaged 28.4 bushels during the past five years.

Winter wheat, with a condition of 68 per cent indicates 18,010,000 bushels from 1,558,000 acres harvested as compared to 21,282,000 in 1926 from 1,391,000 acres. Farmers expect the 1927 yield to average 11.2 bushels. Wheat did not fill as in 1926, and threshings so far grade lower. Har-

SEEK GREATER PAY FOR MAIL

RAILROADS SAY THEY LOST 37 MILLION LAST YEAR.

ASK A READJUSTMENT

Officials Say Tariffs Not Changed Since 1918 and Operating Costs Now Are Higher.

Atlantic City, July 13.—Railroads of the country today asked an increase of $40,500,000 in the government's annual payment to them for handling mails.

Last year the roads received approximately $190,000,000 from the government for hauling mails which cost them $137,000,000, railroad representatives testified at a hearing before S. S. Mullen, examiner for the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Railroad mail tariffs have not be readjusted since 1918, the railroad men said. In that time, they contend, operating costs, labor and equipment had doubled.

John Worthington, San Francisco, representative of the Southern Pacific, said the roads were suffering a heavy loss in equipment and investments by carrying mail below cost.

The hearing will continue all week.

Eddie Stinson Wins Edsel Ford Trophy

Detroit, Mich, July 13.—Eddie Stinson, mature and experienced pilot, was the possessor today of one of the most coveted awards in aeronautics, the Edsel Ford trophy.

Fighting his way from Grand Rapids through a severe electrical wind and rain storm, Stinson landed at the Ford airport yesterday, the winner of the third annual Ford air tour.

Randolph E. Page won second place.

The tour started June 27 and covered approximately 4,000 miles. Each plane and pilot had a definite schedule and points were awarded for making the requirements of the daily routine.

Deport 150 Mexicans Smuggled Into U. S.

Foreigners Headed to North and Central Texas To Work In The Cotton Fields.

San Benito, Tex., July 13.—Nearly 150 Mexicans were deported today at Hidalgo, Tex., by border patrol officers.

The Mexicans, traveling in ten trucks, were apprehended as they crossed into Texas last night. They were headed for North and Central Texas to work in cotton fields. This brought the total number of persons returned to Mexico in the past three weeks to 350.

Border authorities said the Mexicans were smuggled into this country in the hope of obtaining high wages for picking cotton.

Both American and Mexican border officials have doubled their vigilance during the cotton season. American laws prohibit entry into this country of labor contracted for in foreign fields and the Mexican laws prohibit laborers leaving except under definite contract.

BANKER GETS A NEW TRIAL

E. L. SANFORD, SPRINGFIELD, WINS IN SUPREME COURT.

'HEARSAY' TESTIMONY

Judges Hold, However, That Evidence Supports Charge of Receiving Deposits While Failing.

Jefferson City, July 13.—The four-year sentence imposed on E. L. Sanford, former president of the defunct Holland Banking Co., of Springfield, for receiving deposits when he knew the institution was in a failing condition, was reversed and remanded for new trial today by Division No. 2 of the State Supreme Court.

Judge David E. Blair wrote the opinion, revising the action of the Benton county circuit court, where the case was tried on change of venue. Judge R. F. Walker concurred in the opinion, while Judge J. T. White did not sit in the case because it originated at Springfield, his home city.

Error in Judge's Ruling.

The case was reversed on the ground that error was committed when the trial judge permitted J. E. Cayhill, deputy finance commissioner in charge of the liquidation of the bank to testify concerning the value of property owned by the Interstate Milling Company and the Ferguson Furniture Co.

The companies, borrowers from the bank, failed because of the institution's failure. The high court held this testimony was hearsay.

The opinion held, however, there was substantial evidence to show the bank was in failing condition and that Sanford knew of it when a deposit of $100 was received on January 11, 1924, four days before the institution closed.

The bank had assets of more than $6,000,000 and has paid only a 40 per cent dividend to its creditors.

Sanford was chairman of the state highway commission during the Gardner administration.

Murder Case Reversed.

Jefferson City, July 13.—Division No. 2 of the Supreme court today reversed and remanded the fifteen-year sentence of Roscoe F. Warren, for the murder of John C. Deskins in Kansas City October 13, 1924.

The court held the trial judge erred in refusing the defendant permission to offer testimony showing insanity.

CHIROPRACTORS REGISTRY BOOK ARRIVES HERE

New Law Went Into Effect July 3; Must Secure License and Register.

A registry book for chiropractors has been received by W. R. Tilson, circuit clerk.

Chiropractors, under a recent act of the legislature must secure a license and register their license with the circuit clerk at a $1 fee.

The law stipulates that the governor shall appoint a board of chiropractors, which shall examine applications and issue licenses. The original fee is $25 and the law designates a renewal fee of $10 a year. The governor shall appoint the board within thirty days after the law went into effect, which was July 3, and the chiropractors have thirty days after the board is organized to make application for a license.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Shell and son, Edison of Wilcox were Maryville visitors late yesterday.

JAPAN MAY QUIT PARLEY

DELEGATION IS DISGUSTED WITH BRITAIN'S DEMANDS.

WANT ORIGINAL LIMIT

Nipponese Object to More Than 250,000 Tons of Cruisers.—British Force Already Huge.

London, July 13.—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Geneva said today that the Japanese delegation at the tri-partite naval conference had agreed to a British proposal permitting both the United States and Great Britain twelve cruisers of 10,000 tons and Japan eight.

Geneva, July 13.—Hugh S. Gibson, head of the United States delegation at the naval limitation conference announced today that a plenary session at which "we will review our progress" will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Although declining to say whether the holding of a plenary meeting in which the views of Great Britain, Japan and the United States will become public might be interpreted as a favorable augury, Gibson said that "at least it will not be our last session."

Geneva, July 13.—Interest in the British-American controversy over cruisers was overshadowed today by the possibility of Japan's withdrawal from the naval armament conference, leaving the United States and Great Britain free to arrive at a total cruiser tonnage as high as they please.

The Japanese delegates have indicated that they will under no circumstances sign any treaty providing for a higher cruiser tonnage than that suggested in the original proposal. That was for 250,000 tons, but since then the American delegation, as a compromise for British figures for 600,000 tons, has agreed to raise its own figure to 400,000 tons.

Japanese Want a Decrease.

The Nipponese argument is that when they accepted President Coolidge's invitation to the conference, they did so with the belief the conference would result in a decrease in naval armament.

Instead, they now say, Japan will be obliged to increase its building program if it agrees to higher figures than 250,000 tons.

Another informal meeting of the heads of the three delegations was set for today, at which time the naval and political experts will submit their latest findings after a two-day study of the cruiser problem.

British Criticized at Home.

London, July 13.—Sharply criticizing Britain's cruiser demands at the Geneva conference, the Daily News today pointed out that British cruiser strength is already only seven vessels under the combined strength of the United States, Japan, France and Italy.

I. E. Tebow Dies at Fort Collins, Colo.

Succumbs to Second Attack of Paralysis—Body to Be Brought Here for Burial.

Relatives in Maryville received word last night of the death of I. E. Tebow of Fort Collins, Colo., which occurred suddenly at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Tebow suffered a stroke of paralysis in June but had recovered sufficiently to be up. He sustained a second attack yesterday.

The body will be brought to Maryville, his former home for a number of years, for burial, arriving here Friday noon. A short service will be held at 2:30 o'clock at the First Baptist Church, conducted by the Rev. Guy L. Prather. The pallbearers will include R. B. Montgomery, Eugene Ogden, W. A. White, Lewis White, LeGrand Gann and Jonathan Stark.

Mr. Tebow was born in January, 1871, in Illinois. He came to Nodaway County when 10 years old and his home was near or in Maryville until May, 1920, when the family moved to Fort Collins.

Surviving Mr. Tebow are his widow, who is a sister of S. G. Gillam of this city, and three children, Mrs. Esther Wallace of California, Robert Tebow and Mary Ruth Tebow, both of Fort Collins. Mrs. Wallace had been visiting her parents in Fort Collins for a week. Others surviving are three brothers, Charles and J. L. Tebow, Maryville, and Frank Tebow, San Diego, Cal., and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Owens and Miss Emily Tebow, both of Santa Rosa, Cal.

Mr. Tebow was an active member of the First Baptist Church here up to the time of his removal to Colorado.

A Milk Plant Feasible Here

the dairying industry in this section of the nation, Mr. Bennett said there was a movement away from the North and East to get into producing sections closer to the consuming sections. Recent improvements have made it possible to ship milk many miles, arriving in practically as good condition as on the farm.

Explaining what a milk products plant can do for a community, he pointed to Mount Vernon, where the Carnation Milk Co. opened a condensary about three years ago. It was started with fewer than 250 men supplying milk; now it has more than 1,100, and it is paying out an average of $2,000 every day. In that time, twenty carloads of purebred dairy cattle have been brought into the district, he said.

Because the larger companies are slow to act, Mr. Bennett suggested the possibility of a locally financed plant, in which the farmers might be admitted as stockholders, their stock perhaps to be paid for by profits from their sales.

Go to St. Louis.

Dr. and Mrs. K. C. Cummins, Mrs. Eugene DeArmond and daughter, Betty Jean left early this morning for a trip to St. Louis.

Mrs. Ed Sharp to Hospital.

Mrs. Ed Sharp of Graham was taken to the Methodist Hospital at St. Joseph today for an examination. Her condition is considered serious.

County Association to Meet.

A meeting of the Nodaway County Rebekah Association will be held tomorrow night at I. O. O. F. Hall.

Miss Mayme Dooley of St. Joseph came yesterday morning to be the guest of Mrs. Lon Garrett Orr, Miss Bertha Ritze, and other friends for several days.

RAID RESULTS IN ARREST OF BUR. JCT. MAN

F. S. Patton Gives Bond When Charged With Possession of Intoxicating Liquors.

A raid on the Maple Hotel, Burlington Junction, this morning by county officers resulted in the arrest of F. S. Patton, proprietor, and the confiscation of a half pint of alleged liquor.

Residents of Burlington Junction had complained that drinking had been taking place in the hotel for the last two or three days, and a search warrant was issued.

Patton had been drinking this morning, George P. Wright, prosecuting attorney, said, according to the reports coming to him.

Patton was released later today on a $500 bond to insure his appearance at the October term of the circuit court. Mr. Wright said he filed an information against Patton this afternoon, charging him with the possession of intoxicating liquor.

This is the second time Patton has been in the toils of the law this year. At the January term of court he was charged with gaming and paid a $25 fine upon a plea of guilty.

The raid on the hotel was made this morning by Sheriff L. B. Campbell and Deputy Sheriff Harve England of Maryville, Deputy Sheriff John Rasco of Barnard, and Deputy Sheriff U. S. ("Van") Reavis of Burlington Junction.

O. P. Stafford Dies in Burlington Today

Funeral Services Will Be Held at Home at 2 o'clock Tomorrow Afternoon.

O. P. Stafford, 85 years old on June 3, died at his home in Burlington Junction at 12:30 o'clock today. He suffered a stroke several weeks ago, but had improved the last few days. He had been a resident of Burlington Junction for the past ten years. Before that time he lived on a farm a mile and a quarter west of the R. I. Bilby home. He was born in Platte County.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the home and burial will be made in the Ohio cemetery.

Survivors of Mr. Stafford are, Mrs. Stafford, six children: James O. Stafford, Roy Stafford, Ray Stafford, Mrs. Myra White, Burlington Junction; Mrs. Stella Ellsworth, Quitman and Parry W. Stafford, Muskogee, Okla. He had two brothers near Clarinda, Ia., and two sisters, one in Denver, Colo., and one in Oakland, Cal.

Mr. Stafford was a soldier in the Civil War.

Miss Gladys Bookman went to St. Joseph today to remain until tomorrow night.

Modern Tut

Seldom photographed is King Fuad, of Egypt, the 1927 successor of Tutankhamen. A portly, be-fezed individual is he, as shown in this picture of his arrival in Paris en route for a state visit to London.

Kansas Citians Visit the Pastime Stables

Men From Longview Farm Make Flattering Offer for Two Horses But Fail to Get Them.

C. J. Tucker, manager of Longview, Farm, Kansas City, and Lonnie Hayden, head of the saddle horse department of that famous farm, were in Maryville yesterday, looking over the show horses of the Pastime Stables. They were much interested in two show prospects, one a three-gaited mare, Sarilou Smart, owned by F. M. Townsend of this city, and The Plainsman, a five-gaited gelding owned by W. L. Petrikin of Denver, Col.

The visitors made what Mr. Townsend described as a "very flattering offer" on these horses, but the owners did not accept and the horses will remain members of the Pastime Stables string to be shown this year under the management of James H. Tapp at most of the state fairs and horse shows.

The Pastime Stables will start out on the circuit about August 10, and will probably be shown at Sedalia, Mo., Springfield, Ill., Des Moines, Ia., Minneapolis, Minn., Oklahoma City and Tulsa, Okla., Wichita, Kan., and the American Royal at Kansas City.

Carthage Claims the Youngest Grandfather

Carthage, Mo., July 13.—M. O. Wright of Jasper County, 38, claims to be the youngest grandfather in the county. He has a daughter, 19, who has a son 10 months old.

A family reunion was held at the Wright home recently at which five generations were represented. The oldest representative was a great-great grandmother, 84, and the youngest was the 10-month-old baby.

Former Instructor Here.

George H. Beasley of Kansas City formerly an instructor in the College here, is a guest at the Hotel Linville.

Mrs. Homer Long of Graham was in Maryville yesterday.

Townsend Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Townsend entertained with an informal dance last night at the Maryville Country Club, when about 100 friends were asked to meet their guests, Mrs. Norman Chamberlin of Albany and her grandadughter and grandson, Miss Jewel Marie Markham and Baird Markham, jr., of Oklahoma City. Bovard's seven-piece orchestra played. Miss Mary Louise Walsh of St. Joseph, who is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Sturm, was an out-of-town guest.

Miss Markham has been visiting in Washington, D. C., since May and is en route home. She will return to Albany tomorrow with her grandmother, her brother, and cousin, Jean Patton of Bonne Terre, Mo., who also has been visiting the E. L. and F. M. Townsend families, and the following day will leave for Oklahoma City.

Tea for Mrs. Orear.

In farewell compliment to Mrs. E. G. Orear, who will leave this month for Kansas City to make her home, the Maryville Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will give an informal tea next Tuesday afternoon from 4 to 5 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Joseph Jackson on South Walnut street.

"Christmas" Party.

The initial meeting of the World Friendship Circle of the First Methodist Church, recently organized, took the form of a "Christmas" party yesterday afternoon at the home of Eleanor Nicholas on East Third street. The members brought inexpensive gifts which were arranged around a decorated Christmas tree. These will be packed and sent to a mission school in the foreign field. The program consisted of a leaflet by Elizabeth Woodhull, a discussion of the first chapter of the study book by Eleanor Stanfield, and a play entitled "Christmas at a Mission Station in China." The rest of the afternoon was spent socially and refreshments were served.

Mrs. Flossie Davis Asks for Divorce

Mrs. Flossie Fay Davis, a miner, by her next friend, Bertha Wagner, yesterday filed a divorce suit in circuit court against Homer G. Davis.

Desertion is alleged in the petition, which stated the couple were married February 8, 1923, and one child, James Willis Davis, was born. The child is now 3 years of age, and Mrs. Davis asks the court for her custody.

Thomas Walton of Pickering, during their three weeks' stay.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Garrett and son, William, returned last night from a two weeks visit with relatives of Mrs. Garrett in Wray and Pueblo, Colo.

LAST OF GIRL ORGANIZERS OF P. E. O. IS DEAD

Muscatine, Ia., July 13.—Mrs. Mary Allen Stafford, last survivor of the band of seven girl students at Iowa Wesleyan college, Mount Pleasant, on Jan. 21, 1869, founded the P. E. O. sisterhood, died Monday.

Mrs. Stafford had taken an active part in the work of the organization and only last April, participating in the laying of the corner stone of the P. E. O. memorial library at Iowa Wesleyan. As the wife of Dr. C. L. Stafford, Methodist minister, and former president of the college from which they both graduated, she was active in church work.

Mrs. Stafford was born at Mount Pleasant, in 1848. Her marriage to Dr. Stafford was the result of a college romance. Besides Dr. Stafford, two children, C. L. Stafford, jr., of Oak Park, Ill., and C. R. Stafford, county attorney of Muscatine county, survive.

Faculty Members Present Program

Mrs. Caldwell, Miss Dvorak, Bernhardt Bronson And H. O. Hickernell Give Solo Numbers.

The faculty from the conservatory of music at the State Teachers College presented the program at the weekly assembly held at the College this morning. The program was enjoyed by the entire student body and an encore was demanded after each number.

It is the policy of the Conservatory to present its faculty in a recital at assembly, sometime during each quarter, and these programs are always looked forward to with much interest by the students. The students of the Conservatory are usually presented in recital also at least one time during the quarter.

Following is the program given this morning:

Piano solo, "Legend" (Arne Oldberg) Mrs. Carrie Margaret Caldwell.

Vocal solo, "Nocturne" (Curran), Bernhardt Bronson, Baritone.

Violin solo, First Movement from F minor Concerto (Vieuxtemps), Miss Helen Dvorak.

Trombone solo, "Monarch Polka" (Pinard), H. O. Hickernell.

For encores, Mrs. Caldwell played, "Etude in C Minor" (Chopin); Mr. Bronson sang, "Fuzzy-Wuzzy," words by Kipling, music by Arthur Whitting; Miss Dvorak played, "Swiss Lullaby" (De Ribaupierre), for violin alone, and "Spanish Serenade" (Chaminade-Kreisler), and Mr. Hickernell played "Intermezzo" from "Cavalleria Rusticana" (Maseagni).

William S. Naylor of the piano department was the accompanist.

Wilbur Frankum is visiting his brother, Guy Frankum, and family, in Quitman this week.

SEES CHANGE IN THE WEST

PLAINS OF 1900 "NOT WHAT THEY USED TO BE."

VAST FARMING SECTOR

Crops in Southern Iowa and Nebraska About the Same as Here, Correspondent Writes.

(Editor's note: The Rev. and Mrs. J. Howard Thompson of Burlington Junction are taking an extended trip through the West. The Reverend Mr. Thompson, who is the Democrat-Forum and Tribune correspondent from Burlington Junction, has consented to write articles concerning his trip. The first appears below.)

Colorado Springs, Colo.
July 11, 1927.

Editor, Democrat-Forum and Tribune:

As per promise, that I would send in a letter or two while away on my vacation I herewith submit my first communication. We left Burlington Junction Sunday afternoon at 4:29 going to Villisca, Iowa., where we waited for four hours, leaving there at 9:20 p. m. and arrived here the next night at 6:40 and are comfortably housed for the night at the New Albany, owned and managed by Mr. and Mrs. Manning, former Nodaway County people. Mrs. Manning is a sister of Mrs. J. S. Corken and William and Frank Nicholas, all of Burlington Junction. We find them very fine people and ideal host and hostess.

It might be of interest to say that we found the crops in Southern Iowa, and Eastern Nebraska about as they are in Nodaway County and Northwest Missouri. The crop is small but promising and should the season be favorable later in the season, the crop will be abundant. There is a very large acreage planted. The wheat and other small grain is good, being of a good quality and a good yield. It is about all in either in the shock, or in the stack, much of it being cut with the header and therefore could not be shocked.

It was very interesting to note the change of the entire country from Omaha to Denver, since the first time I crossed it in 1907, or twenty years ago. Then, west of Holdredge was a seemingly limitless prairie, with large herds of cattle roaming about the hills. Now it is one vast farming section, with great crops of wheat, oats, barley, corn and alfalfa, growing and being harvested everywhere, with more than 30,000 acres around Ft. Morgan and Brush planted to Sugar Beet.

Then the remnant of the buffalo and the antelope herds was seen, only to be replaced by the jack rabbit, fleet of foot and elusive of the swiftest grey hound. Then, long distances apart, one could only see a sod shanty, or a rickety shack here and there as the only evidence of civilization and the intrusion of man. But now we see in close proximity beautiful farm homes, good barns and other out buildings and sheds, well painted and in a good state of repair. The large herds of cattle are gone, except for a small bunch here and there and these mostly of the dairy stock.

The old type cow boy has been replaced by the barbed wire fence and the Ford car. He is no longer needed, save for exhibition on special occasions, and is rapidly sinking into oblivion.

Large hog ranches have taken the marketable place of cattle, and the porker is to be found in some sections in very large numbers, the belted type predominating. In fact the "Plains" of 1927 are vastly different than the "Plains" of 1900. Everywhere is plainly seen the touch of the hand of man, strengthened by the marked intelligence behind it.

While I am writing this letter for publication in the writing room of the Albany Hotel, just across the street from the City Park, the band is entertaining the tourists and other visitors with as good music as one needs to want to hear. There are more than a thousand people in the park to enjoy the music.

We are staying but a little while here. At 11 o'clock tomorrow morning we will again have our grips packed and will be on our way again westward bound, going through the Royal Gorge, and over Tennessee Pass, stopping for the night again at Minton, Colo., on the other side of the Continental Divide. In our next letter we will tell you about it. Enough for now.

Sincerely,
J. Howard Thompson.

Father of Mrs. C. F. McCaffrey Dies at 92

Funeral Services Held Yesterday at Princeton for Alexander Mulvania, Civil War Veteran.

Mrs. C. F. McCaffrey and her son, Earle Gray Long of St. Louis, who has been visiting here, returned last evening from Princeton, where they were called Monday by the death of Mrs. McCaffrey's father, Alexander Mulvania, which occurred Sunday. Funeral services were held yesterday morning.

Mr Mulvania was 92 years old, and was a Civil War veteran. He was the youngest of eight children.

Mr. and Mrs. Long and sons, Earle, jr., and Byron, left last night for St. Louis after a several weeks visit here.

16 Years on Thesis—and Not Through Yet

Former S. T. C. Student Is Making Study of Criminal Tendencies of Children.

To the average graduate student, a year or two spent on a thesis is a long time, but Leonard M. Hosman has spent sixteen years on his thesis and isn't through with it yet. Hosman, who is superintendent of schools, president of the Rotary Club and high priest of the Royal Arch Masonic chapter at Gallatin, Mo., has been studying criminal tendencies of children during his entire career as a teacher. He hopes at the end of two more summers to receive his A. M. degree in education here at the University, and by that time his thesis, "Retardation and Its relation to Crime," will be completed. Hosman, as superintendent of the Gallatin school system, found himself in an unusual situation two years ago when thirteen banks in Daviess county failed and his board of education was left heavily in debt and without a penny. Under his direction the school system was refinanced, the teachers were paid and school continued without interruption. He hopes to have the school out of debt again within another year.—The Columbia Missourian.

Mr. Hosman is a former student of the State Teachers College and is well known here.

NEW PASTOR AT BEDISON

R. J. McCLAIN, STUDENT AT COLLEGE, CHOSEN.

TO SERVE WHILE HERE

Church Will Be Held Morning and Night Every Sunday It is Announced.

R. J. McClain, who is attending summer school at the State Teachers College has been employed by the Bedison church to preach both morning and evening every Sunday during the time he will be in Maryville.

Church calendar will be:

10:00 a. m. Sunday School.

11:00 a. m. Preaching.

7:00 p. m. Christian Endeavor.

8:00 p. m. Preaching.

Everyone is most cordially invited to each and all of these services.

Mr. McClain gave two strong sermons Sunday, the one in the morning on the subject "Being 100 per cent Christians." In the evening he compared the Christian Life and Light using the text: "The path of the righteous is as a light shining more and more unto the perfect day."

The Young People's Service Sunday night was especially good with the new president, Miss Elsie Snyder, presiding. The devotional part of the meeting was led by Ralph Carmichael using the subject "Christian Growth." An object lesson on the Cultivation of the Christian life was given by Wm. Earl Mozingo using two stalks of corn, both having had the same kind of soil, the same rain, te same sunshine but one had been cultivated and cared for the other neglected and choked by weeds.

The Young People of the Endeavor Society will give an icecream social at the church Saturday night, July 16 for the benefit of the church and Endeavor Society.

Swimming Pool Has Thorough Cleaning

The Sanitary Swimming Pool this week underwent a thorough cleaning, when all the water was drained and the walls and bottom were cleaned with chlorine, George Aley, manager, said today.

The pool was refilled with fresh water, he said. The refilling required thirty-two hours, and was completed yesterday. The 175,000 gallons that was turned into the pool day before yesterday, as stated in the Democrat-Forum yesterday, was only one day's process of filling, Mr. Aley said. The city continued to pump water into the pool night before last and yesterday.

The water in the pool is treated daily with chlorine.

Epworth Meeting to Be Held at Burr Oak

Young People Are Invited to Attend Friday Afternoon, Bringing Basket Suppers.

A pre-institute meeting of the Epworth League of this district will be held at Burr Oak Church, four miles west of Skidmore, at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, according to an announcement of the Rev. D. G. McDougall, of Rock Port, president of the League.

All the members of the League and other young people are invited to attend and are asked to bring basket dinners for a basket supper.

The afternoon will be taken up with games and a program.

Free Chautauqua to Be Given at Parnell

A free chautauqua will be held at Parnell August 23 to 26 inclusive. The chautauqua will be given by the business men of Parnell and others in the surrounding community.

The programs will be given by the Acme lyceum and chautauqua system of Des Moines, Iowa.

WEATHER MAN TALKS "SHOP"

PREDICTOR OF RECENT FLOODS LONG DISTANCE FORECASTER.

NOT GUESS WORK NOW

Time and Location of Hurricanes, Tornadoes and Cyclones Can Be Given Accurately.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two stories on past and future weather conditions in parts of the northern half of the Western Hemisphere, furnished exclusively for the United Press by Herbert Janvrin Brown, long distance weather forecaster, who accurately predicted this year's Mississippi flood before the House Committee on Agriculture in 1923, and who subsequently prophesied correctly many recent tornadoes and storms in the United States.

Washington, July 13.—Long distance forecasting is past the stage of experiment and is now an actuality, according to Herbert Janvrin Brown, noted weather forecaster.

Not only can rain, snow and hail be forecast, far in advance of their occurrence, but the location and approximate time of hurricanes, tornadoes and cyclones can be given, Brown says.

On January 15 this year, Brown issued a special forecast warnings against cold waves which swept across the country a month later, and for the unusually heavy rains which devastated crops and caused flood conditions in sections of Pacific coast and southwestern states.

His warning said:

"The weather in the United States, Canada and northwestern Mexico for February will continue to present marked, adverse features, which have so far been so remarkably sustained that the winter of 1926-27 would be, over a large extent of North America, one of the severest ever recorded.

"Cold waves of a serious order are forecasted for February 15 to 20; February 21 to 25 and 27 to March 3.

"Heavy rains will extend the whole length of the Pacific coast, but will not be marked in West Mexico. The American southwest will receive above normal precipitation."

Surprisingly Accurate.

Accurate almost to the day, February 14 saw the beginning of the first cold wave when Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, Canada, recorder 38 degrees below zero. By February 17 the storm was sweeping through the northwest portions of the United States, bringing exceptionally law temperatures.

February 18 saw 30 degrees, below the freezing point, along the Rio Grande river in Texas, and the same day 28 degrees at Taylor, Texas.

Leaving a path of destruction in its wake, the strom crept across the nation, causing damage variously estimated at between $10,000,000 and $20,000,000.

How his forecast for "heavy rains" along the Pacific coast have served to earn him the title of "World champion long distance weather forecaster", is shown by the subsequent precipitation in sections included in his remarkable prediction.

On February 14, 1.68 inches of rain fell at Los Angeles; San Diego was deluged under a fall of 1.84 inches; Sacramento got 1.16 inches; Red Bluff 1.40 inches; San Francisco, 1.02 inches, and Flagstaff, Ariz. in the midst of one of the most arid sections of the United States, had the heaviest rainfall in years: 1.98 inches.

Bad Hurricanes Possible.

July, beginning of the West Indian hurricane period, may bring some of the worst hurricanes on record, although they may not strike land as did the Florida hurricane of last September, Brown predicts.

Following a year filled with weather calamities, many of which Brown prophecied months before they occurred, he says now the peculiar fluctuations of solar radiation, caused by the sun reaching the maximum sun spot period will bring on some of the worst hurricanes in history.

According to his calculations, Brown said the slight retraction northward of the Azorean cold area, an oceanic body of cold water, will cause a similar movement northward of what is known as the "30-inch isobar of barometrical pressure."

This shifting of one of the great ocean bodies of cold water and area of great barometric pressure over the West Indies will have the effect of increasing rainfall.

"There should be a notable lessening of the drought conditions so marked in Porto Rico the past year, as well as an increase in the rainfall of the Virgin Islands, in Haiti and in Cuba," Brown said.

"Predicted No Summer."

"There is also the threat of a rise in the number of tropical storms influenced in part by the movement northward of the isobar and in part by the expected trend in the sun spots toward their maximum near the end of 1927."

Brown forecasted several years ago that 1927 would "witness a return to the conditions of 1816, historically known as the year without a summer." He now warns that even semi-tropical countries will not escape cold weather this summer.

"It should be borne in mind," he says, "that there is a probability of low temperatures in Cuba, as was notably the case in 1816."

The driving southward from Greenland and Labrador of a continuous stream of icebergs, one of the most notable ever recorded, continuing through the entire summer and even late into November 1926, was responsible, in part, for the unusual change in temperatures and weather conditions in the West Indies and the adjacent areas, indicated already in the unusual sweep of the cold waves of Spring as far south as these points, he said.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

LINCOLN NUNNALLY, elderly American chemist, is summoned to het Ettle jungle-brodered town of PORTO VERDE, in west central Brazil, by his young friend, VILAK, who is concerned for the safety of his beautiful cousin, ELISE MARBERRY, owner of a coffee plantation and other property near Porto Verde.

Several mysterious deaths have occurred, including that of TONY BARBETTA, one of Elise's foremen, and the girl herself has received warnings to get out of the country.

Vilak believes GAYLORD PRENTISS, a reticent and forbidding man, known to be an enemy of Elise, may be involved some way in the deaths. Accordingly, he and Nunnally set out for Prentiss' house, which is guarded by barbed wire fences and a vicious dog. Elise insists on joining them. Prentiss sets the dog on them and Vilak saves his companions' lives by chloroforming it into unconsciousness.

The next day Elise's two-year-old orphaned nephew is kidnaped. Vilak finds the trail and in a few hours they come upon the child, deserted by its captors and being cared for by a gang of railroad workmen. Returning with the baby, Vilak gravely tells Elise he has bad news for her.

Vilak tells Elise she and the child must leave on the next boat. He and Nunnally that evening save an Indian from cruel torture at the hands of two ruffians. Vilak is stabbed in the wrist. He decides to close his barber shop and stick to the character of Attorney Davis. As he is closing up, an excited native approaches, bearing news.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY

"Do they trail the prisoner now, amigos?" he inquired politely.

The gendarme's gloom deepened.

"Si, senhor, they trail him," he muttered. "But what will they find?" With his thick hand he pointed off the jungle. "The cascavel, the boa, and the crocodile with the hungry mouth. It is not good to chase in the jungle, senhor." He grumbled a curse. "May the fiery Satan catch this Engleesh and make him suffer. Hear, senhor. Hear and pity. Next month they were to make me a corporal. A corporal with the beautiful stripes upon the arm. And now, because this night-crawler has escaped, what will they do? Will they make me a corporal? Assuredly not. Will they give me gold stripes upon my arm? Asuredly not, senhor. eBtter will they give me red stripes upon by back."

"He must have made some noise filing. Didn't you hear anything?"

The gendarme's huge mouth opened wider in protest. "I am but a man, senhor. I am not the snake who creeps upon the ground and can hear a frog breath in the pool half a mile away, so have I heard men say. My ears are sharp. But his filing was soft as the brook which flows in summer. I have heard nothing. Once during the night I have heard voices outside his window. But what are voices? Many pass here

"What does it mean," she asked wonderingly. "Is that a hearse you've drawn around the queen?"

CHAPTER 19

The old man, glad to receive another auditor, thrust out this skinny hands. "He have escaped," he mumbled excitedly.

"Who has escaped?" Vilak's glance was puzzled.

"The Engleesh. The Engleesh."

Vilak grunted in surprise. "You mean Limey Potts, the Englishman who was put in jail for killing Tony?"

"Yess. Yess. Leemey. Leemey."

"When did he get out?"

"Last night, the gendarme have tell me. Or thees morning early maybe. They do not know. Bad man, Leemey. He kill other man soon, too. You see, maybe. Nice Englishman, nice; bad Englishman, bad, worse more than bad Brazilian, bad Italian, bad anything. Kill somebody, you see maybe. You go see self, you don't believe me he escape, you go."

"Think I will go take a look." Vilak responded, and assuring the old man that his news always surpassed that of any other inhabitant of Porto Verde, hurried off. A short walk brought him to the jail where Limey had been confined to await trial before the judge who would come to Porto Verde in a month.

It was a small red brick structure consisting of two cells and a tiny room to house the gendarmes who stood befor it. Both cells had windows opening onto the street, protected by heavy iron bars. A glance showed Vilak which cell the Englishman had occupied; two of the thick iron bars at the rear had been cut with a file and bent widely to the side, affording a fairly comfortable passage even for one of as ample a build as the brawny Englishman.

Vilak turned to the huge blue and red garbed negro, who, rifle at his side, stood looking gloomily up at the twisted metal.

during the night. If I waked each time I hear a voice I should have no sleep and grow thin and die. No, it was the devil who has helped him, for he is the son, the father of the devil, even more, the father of the devil's father."

Vilak looked at the tiny bits of metal which covered the drifted leaves below the window. "Have you found the file?"

The other shrugged his huge shoulders. "I have not looked, senhor. Of what use, even should I find it? A file is . . . but a file. Is it not so?"

With an appearance of being quite casual, Vilak began kicking about the leaves to see what he could discover. Finding nothing here, in the course of conversation he gained the other's permission to visit the inside. In a dark corner of the cell, something metallic glinted. He walked over to it.

It was a file, tossed there with slight attempt at concealment after the escape had been made ready. Vilak picked it up. It was shining with the bits of metal it had cut from the bars. He glanced at the name of the maker cut into the triangular shaft, then at a small mark hammered into the metal a quarter of an inch from the name.

"Humph," he murmured to himself. "This comes from Elise's fazenda." The file had been manufactured by the American factory from which she bought all tools of this description and at the side of the maker's name bore hammered into the metal the swastika which was cut or painted upon all material immediately on its arrival at the fazenda. Slipping it unobtrusively into his pocket, he walked outside again, wished the gendarme the least of punishments, and hurried back to his shop.

He spent only a moment here, and, taking his personal possessions, locked the door and walked off in the direction of Avilos. He rode only a few miles through the tangled woods, however, and turned from the main road to take a short cut which led him back unobserved to his house behind the mango trees.

Here for what he expected would be the last time, he took off the gray suit he wore as the barber, and put it inside a trunk. Then in the fashionably cut dress of the immaculate Attorney Davis he rode up to the fazenda. There he met Elise and the old man, who at her urgent request had given up his room at the hotel and established himself in the comfortable chamber he had occupied on his first night in her house.

In the afternoon it began to rain, but notwithstanding, the two men went to visit the manganese deposits which had been discovered on a wide, rocky plateau which rose a few hundred feet from the general level of Elise's Porto Verde properties.

"I have never seen so many tiny . . . er . . . lakes," the old man said, as he stood on an abrupt red cliff and looked at the watery surfaces dotting the black vista unfolded before him. "Judging by the . . . er . . . strata . . . I should say this had all been one huge volcanic lake not many . . . er . . . geological ages ago."

"I don't know, but I do know that as Elise said it makes it awfully dangerous here in the flood seasons, particularly when the rain comes down as hard as it is coming now." He looked at the huge drops falling with such force that their splash against the hard surfaces of the leaves sometimes attained two inches. "If this keeps up, we will have a bad one."

The chemist took a few samples of the deposits for analysis later. The two men returned to the house in a downpour that showed no signs of abating. The remainder of the afternoon and evening passed without incident.

"I could really imagine that I was up in our old summer house in New Hampshire," Elise remarked as she put down the cards after a game of double Canfield, in which Vilak as usual won. "The jungle is so quiet in the rain, and nothing has happened to upset in the slightest. Outside of the flood threat, which is always with us, and to which I am accustomed to, it's really the quietest day I've known in Porto Verde for a long time. Perhaps things are through happening for a while. Perhaps I won't have to take Tinky away after all. What do you think, Vilak?"

Her cousin flicked some cards in his long fingers, then extracting the queen of spades with a few deft strokes of the pencil changed the outlines of the crowned head, and sketched in a few figures behnnd it. He gave the card to Elise.

"What does it mean?" she asked wonderingly. "Is that a hearse you've drawn around the queen?"

"Exactly. And the figures behind are mourners, the family of my cherished cousin. Which is merely my quiet way of telling you what will undoubtedly happen if you stay here. Your memory is very short, my dear. One day of quiet—or at least what you think is quiet—and you are sure that all danger is over. While the truth is much more likely that the quiet is occasioned because the greatest danger is being prepared.

"However, I'm not worried about your leaving. I feel quite certain now that when the times comes for your boat the day after tomorrow even you will be only too glad to go. If even tomorrow will be one-tenth as tranquil as you apparently think today was, I'll . . . let's see, what will I wager? A new Paris frock? No, that's not enough. A pearl necklace? No, that's not enough, either. Let's see." He laughed. "I know. I'll marry you before nightfall. And knowing my feelings on that subject, and how much that would annoy me, you can guess how secure I feel in my opinion."

"What glorious conceit!" she flashed.

"Seriously," he went on, "don't get over confident. It's one of your few faults. Keep close watch over Tinky and over yourself. Have that pistol always with you. There are forces working here which are going to reach a climax of terrific violence. That climax is coming quickly. Too quickly. I only wish that boat left tonight."

He bade her good night, played cards a few moments with the old man, then both retired. The torrential rain continued throughout the night. The three were at breakfast when the kinky-haired little negress who was serving them came out from the kitchen and aproached Elise timidly.

"What is it, Maria?" Elise asked.

"There is sometheeng who weesh to see you. A man. He have just come on a horse. From Meester Wilson at Villapa. He say he must see you queeck".

CORNS

Instant Relief

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads stop all pain quicker than any other known method. Takes but a minute to quiet the worst corn. Healing starts at once. When the corn is gone it never comes back. If new shoes make the spot "touchy" again, a Zino-pad stops it instantly. That's because Zino-pads remove the cause—pressing and rubbing of shoes.

Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads are medicated, antiseptic, protective. At all druggist's and shoe dealer's—35c.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

CARD OF THANKS 3

WE WISH to thank our many friends and neighbors for their sympathy and help during the recent illness and death of our loved one.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ripley, Mrs. Silas Randall, John Randall.

OBITUARIES 6

LITA FERN RIPLEY was born Sept. 12, 1899 at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wermelskirchen, near Parker, Mo., and passed from this life July 6, 1927, at a St. Joseph hospital.

A short time after her birth her parents, Edmund L. Ripley and Mary, moved to their own home where she lived until her marriage to Louie Randall, Feb. 18, 1925. During the first two years her home was near Skidmore, Mo., and the present year was living in Nodaway County, near Maryville.

She was of a cheerful disposition, drawing many friends to her, very industrious and a true helpmate to her husband. She will be sadly missed by her relatives and friends.

Besides her husband she leaves to morn her going, her parents, two brothers and two sisters, and a host of friends.

Funeral services were conducted from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Ripley of near Graham, by C. E. Hagee of Fillmore, Mo.

White Cloud

The club met with Mrs. Elmer Hanna Thursday afternoon July 8. Quilt blocks were pieced for her. During the business meeting the semi-annual election of officers was held. All officers were re-elected: Mrs. Old Coleman, president; Mrs. Nick Thull, vice-president; Mrs. Robert Ramsey, treasurer; Mrs. Galen Ulmer, Secretary; Mrs. Henry Brown and Mrs. Elmer Hanna drew presents from the birthday box Milss Marguerite Melick of Lincoln, Nebraska, Misses Christina Kysar and Olive Boyd and Mrs. Will Lett of Pickering were guests. Members in attendance were Mrs. Galen Ulmer, Mrs. Milburn Archer, Mrs. Bert Baldwin, Mrs. Elmer Hutcherson, Mrs. Ira Ringold, Mrs. Robert Ramsey, Mrs. Will Boyd, Mrs. Myrtle Gillespie, Mrs. Oland Ringold, Mrs. Ol Coleman, Mrs. Henry Brown, Mrs. Les Ringold, Mrs. Nick Thull and Mrs. Frank Davis. Refreshments of orange pudding, angel food cake and lemonade were served by the hostess assisted by her mother, Mrs. Will Lett.

Joe Ulmer shipped cattle Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Ramsey of Northboro, Ia., were guests of their son, Robert and family Sunday.

The Hanna Brothers shipped two loads of cattle to St. Joseph, Monday. They and Mrs. Elmer Hanna motored down Tuesday to see them sell and also to do some shopping.

Burlington Junction

(By J. Howard Thompson).

Miss Ella Farrell of St. Louis, came Saturday morning for a week end visit with her sister, Florence, then will go on to Denver and Loveland for a two week's visit with her parents, who recently moved from Burlington Junction to Loveland to make their home. Miss Farrell was born and reared in this community and has many friends here who are always glad to see her. For a number of years past she has held the position of cashier for the Community Light and Power Co., of St. Louis.

Read the community notes in the Democrat-Forum, and you will keep posted as to what is going on in the community. Regularly the notes appear in the Wednesday and Saturday issues of the daily, but during the vacation period of the writer ,this plan may be broken up somewhat. However, letters will appear every week at least once and perhaps more. We left Sunday afternoon for the West, with a number of stop-over points in mind.

The Rev. Lane Douglas, a former pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church here, will preach next Sunday morning. Mr. Douglas was pastor in Burlington Junction for four delightful years, twenty years ago, and is yet favorably remembered by many, especially of the older people. There will be no evening service.

It is to be hoped that every citizen from the smallest to the largest will be a real booster for the chautauqua, which will begin on the afternoon of July 29, and will continue for five days. A great program has been arranged for this year. There are one hundred guarantors this year.

O. P. Stafford, who has been ill for the past few days, seems greatly improved, and hopes are now being entertained for his complete recovery. His children have been at his bedside constantly, giving him every care and comfort possible, and are overjoyed over his improved condition.

Wheat harvest seems to be on in full measure these days and doubtless by the time these notes are read, most if not quite all thewheat will be in the shock. The farmers say the quality is good, and the yield will be up to the average.

Mrs. Oscar Ashbrook and two daughters, Nellie Marie, and Darlene, have been in Blanchard, Ia., for a few days visiting her brother, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Leonard. They returned home last Thursday night.

The Rev. J. Howard Thompson was called into the home of Mrs. Dewey Leonard last week Tuesday evening, where he christened the three children of Mrs. Leonard. The children were given the names of Bertha, Bettie Lou, and Dewey Bryan. Mrs. Leonard and the children are making their home with her mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Teague, in Cleveland, a suburb of Burlington Junction.

Broadcasting station KFNF in Shenandoah, Iowa, is quite an attraction for many of our citizens. The latest to be attracted are Ray Boyer and family and P. D. Nicholas and family, who with basket dinners, went to the Iowa city for a day of outing and enjoyment a few days ago. They returned home in the evening of the same day.

Jack Warren, whose health has been very poor of late, owing to a recent severe attack of double pneumonia, left a few days ago for Hatton, Wash., with the hope that he would be greatly benefitted by the change. He was accompanied by Mrs. Fannie Birdwell and son, Walton, who had been visiting for some time at the D. B. Warren home in east Burlington Junction, and whose home is in Hatton.

Sheridan Graves, one of the rural mail carriers, is now taking his annual vacation of two weeks, and while off duty as a mail carrier is putting in the time painting his residence and improving the property. His son, Earl, is acting as substitute while he is on his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Rosecrans were host and hostess to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Orie Kanaar, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rosecrans, all of Odell, Neb., a few days ago. On their return home Mr. Rosecrans returned with them to Odell for a day to attend to some business matters and Mrs. Thomas Rosecrans remained for a longer visit here. Mr. Rosecrans returned home Wednesday of last week.

Lester Crane and wife of Gower, Mo., were here for a few days recently. Mr. and Mrs. Crane formerly lived here in town. Mr. Crane was caretaker of Highway number 18 for a number of years, and last spring was promoted to a large section of the cement highway between Gower and Kansas City, with head-quarters at Gower. Mrs. Crane taught a very successful term of school at the Star School district last year. They moved from Burlington Junction to Gower at the close of the school.

Mrs. Wroe Carpenter and her son are in Kansas City for a visit of some length with relatives and friends. While gone they will attend a reunion of the Goodson family. The Goodson family are near relatives of Mrs. Carpenter's family.

Ramey Hann of the Hann Brothers furniture store left for Sedalia, Mo., last Saturday morning by motor to attend an officers meeting of the National Guard, and to assist in bringing back the army trucks assigned to the Battery here. He was accompanied as far as Kansas City by his wife and Mrs. Mary Jane Hann, wife of Berry Hann, his brother, who visited there until Monday, when they returned with him.

Samuel Arnold, the second son of Mr. and Mrs. Delta Arnold, has been near St. Joseph for the past two weeks visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jon Arnold. He returned home last week, after having a very fine visit.

Mrs. Ammon Walter is in Elmo visiting her daughter, and her family, Mr. and Mrs. Mildred McIntyre. She went to the McIntyre home last Friday morning and returned Sunday evening.

Mrs. Maud Friend, wife of E. W. Friend of St. Joseph, was here last Saturday visiting her father, J. L. Stafford, who is ill Mrs. Friend will return early in the week to assist in caring for her father.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stafford of Pickering were in town Saturday afternoon, visiting Mr. Stafford's father, J. L. Stafford, who is confined to his room, at his home in the southeast part of town.

The services at the Methodist Church were largely attended last Sunday morning. People were present from Hopkins, Clarksdale, Cameron, and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferris and daughter of Clarksdale, were week-end visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Corken. Mrs. Corken is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ferris.

It took three numbers to announce the Sunday School attendance at the Methodist Church last Sunday morning. The pastor's class had nineteen boys in attendance, and other classes were largely attended, notably the Adult Bible class with Miss Jennie White as teacher. On account of the hot weather, three of the classes were held out on the lawn of the Church in the shade of the large trees that grace the lawn.

Edward Edmonds has been incapacitated from his work in the east barber shop on account of a badly sprained right arm, as a result of trying to crank his Ford car.

Mrs. Sarah Friend is in Braddyville, Ia., to visit her son, Willard Friend. Mrs. Willard Friend visited a few days ago in Burlington Junction, and on her return home Mother Friend accompanied her for a few days visit.

CLOSING GRAIN REVIEW.

Chicago, July 13.—All grain pits were in a nervous, unsettled condition today, with the average trend being for lower prices.

Wheat opened ¼ cent higher to 1 cent lower. Opening prices for corn were ⅛ cent higher to ½ cent lower but late trading sent all prices lower. Oats were ¼ cent off and the nervous trend held throughout the session.

Government reports acter as bearish tendencies on the prices. Weather and excellent conditions in the wheat belt, and crops generally good brought no change in the cash market.

There was practically no pressure in the corn pit, but reports were lacking because of good growing weather. The cash market was ½ to 1 cent lower. Oats were without feature.

Provisions were unchanged.

Guilford Announces Shortage of Potatoes

Guilford, Mo., July 13.—Home grown potatoes around Guilford are going to be scarce this year, according to reports of farmers there. The very early potatoes have made a good production, but the dry weather has hit the later potatoes and consequently growers look for the crop to be fairly small.

A COMMITTEE SADDER, WISER

CHESTY CHALLENGERS AT GOLF GET THOROUGHLY TRIMMED.

OPPONENTS' MARGIN 45

Martin A. Lewis, jr., Is Only One of Country Club Tournament Bosses to Win Match.

The chesty tournament committee of the Maryville Country Club, is not quite so "cocky" and today five of the six members were hiding out on the golf court getting some more practice, after the disastrous results of six matches yesterday.

The challenge of Martin Lewis, jr., Ed Dale, F. T. Gillam, E. V. Condon and L. M. Eek, the committee, was snapped up by K. P. Phares, O. M. Watkins, H. F. Lawrence, Paul Jones, J. C. McDonnell and C. G. Vogt, and the challengers were beaten by 45 points.

Five of the six challengers lost their matches. Watkins proved the best man on the links when he shot an 85 for 18 holes, making seven pars and thirteen bogies, while Lawrence was a close second with eight pars, twelve bogies and a total score of 88.

Lewis was low man for the tournament committee by shooting a 90, making six pars and eleven bogies.

Eleven of the twelve contestants adjourned to the Linville Hotel after the matches to talk over the affair at the cost of the challengers, and it was reported today there never was "so much gas" passed over a Linville table as last evening.

Condon failed to show up for the dinner, according to Mr. Lewis, who said the Captain wanted to quit at the ninth hole, but played fifteen for courtesy's sake, and then took the scores of Phares, his opponent, on the last three holes.

The one member of the committee who won his match said he spent the night wondering how the course champion, Gillam, and the runner-up, Costello, won the recent tournament when their ability, as shown yesterday, was that of ordinary dubs.

He got in some more licks by remarking the L. M. Eek's consistent practice has proved that practice often makes one stale; and added that the chairman of the committee, Ed Dale, in the future had better see that challenges be issued only to beginners, or else disgrace might fall on the committee again.

He reported that even in defeat the dinner was greatly enjoyed and the winners felt the matches had been such "duck soup" that they issued a challenge to the tournament committee to play again, probably in two or three weeks—to give five men of the committee time to practice up.

The results of the matches were determined by total pars, bogies, matches won and medal score.

The results of the matches:

K. P. Phares, 2 pars, 3 bogies, total strokes 103; Martin Lewis, jr., 6 pars, 11 bogies, total score 90.

Ed Dale, 4 pars, 9 bogies, total strokes 92; O. M. Watkins, 7 pars, 13 bogies, total strokes 85.

H. F. Lawrence, 8 pars, 12 bogies, total score 88; F. T. Gillam, 5 pars, 8 bogies, total score 91.

Paul Jones, 5 pars, 11 bogies, total score 93; E. V. Condon, 4 pars, 5 bogies, total score 99.

J. C. McDonnell, 4 pars, 10 bogies, total score 95; L. M. Eek, 3 pars, 6 bogies, total score 106.

C. G. Vogt, 5 pars, 10 bogies, total score 89; B. E. Costello, 2 pars, 5 bogies, total score 93.

Students Will Form County Organizations

Meeting Will Be Held Friday Morning For Nineteen Counties In This District.

Announcement was made at the weekly assembly at the State Teachers College this morning that students from various counties who are in school here this summer, and who wish to organize into county groups, will have the opportunity to do so Friday morning of this week. There will be group meetings of the students from the nineteen counties in this district and a meeting for the students from other counties or others states. A faculty member will serve as temporary chairman of each meeting. Although it is rather late in the school quarter, some lively activity is expected from several organizations.

Undergoes Operation.

Miss Pauline Koger underwent an operation for appendicitis at the St. Francis Hospital this morning.

SHARKEY NOT A ROUGHNECK

HE DOESN'T "DEMS" IN HIS CONVERSATIONS.

PICKS UP EDUCATION

During Cruise With Annapolis Midshipmen He Engaged in 50 Bouts and Won Fleet Championship.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

CHAPTER III

New York, July 13.—Whatever may be said of his tendency to admit that he can lick anyone, Jack Sharkey is no rough neck and he is not a dumbbell. Much like Jack Dempsey, whom he is to meet in the Yankee Stadium on July 21, he had no college education, but he has picked up a lot of practical knowledge and he doesn't use "dees and dems" in his conversation.

He had to leave the parochial school in the eighth grade and went to work when he was fourteen in the Endicott-Johnson shoe factory hooking soles to uppers. He worked there two years and then went to Bridgeport, Conn., where he threw gravel into a concrete mixer. He went back home shortly after and went to work shovelling coal.

He wanted to enlist during the war but his parents objected on account of his age and he left the paternal roof again and came to New York where he went to work as a day laborer. He then got a job in the Jersey City shipyards and went back home in 1919 to the shoe factory.

No Job, He Joins Navy.

The following year he left home again and came to New York. He didn't have much luck finding a job and when his funds were gone he followed a gob to the Brooklyn Navy Yard and enlisted.

He had to do a hitch of one year on the training ship at Newport before he could go to sea and it was there he had his experience as a singer about the marines and his first fight.

When the time came to go to sea he was assigned to the North Carolina, which was taking the Annapolis midshipmen on their training cruise. During the cruise he had about fifty bouts with boxers on the crew and he finally won the Atlantic Fleet championship on Columbus Day 1922. He recalls that it was on Columbus Day four years later that he made his great fight against Harry Wills.

That was a fight that always will be talked about for it exploded the fable of the black menace. Wills had been paraded for years as the greatest heavyweight in the ring and no one would fight him until Sharkey came along.

Previous to this time Sharkey was rated little more than a good Boston heavyweight who did most of his fighting around home but when he challenged Wills, the boys started looking up his record.

Gets Muldoon's Eye.

The record wasn't good enough looking to warrant his bravado and it was recalled that in one fight in New York against Sailor Eddie Huffman his work was questioned and he was called before the commission and told there was a suspicion that he had held up his opponent.

"I beat him, didn't I? Have you got a rule that makes a fighter knock out his man?—I thought they called it boxing in New York."

It was at that time that William Muldoon, the veteran commissioner, looked him over and made the rash prediction that he would be the champion some day. Muldoon drove the Dempsey-Tunney fight out of New York by sticking stubbornly to the contention that Sharkey was the man to fight Dempsey and it was Muldoon who stuck by Sharkey when everyone was yelling that it would be murder and that Wills would feast on another set up that might ruin the game.

When Sharkey came into the ring he glared right across at Wills. When they were called together for instructions Sharkey looked him over sneer and a glare that forced the negro's eyes to the floor.

Gave Him Worst Beating.

A microphone was in the corner and Sharkey was asked to say something to the radio listeners.

"I'll knock him out sure as hell," he yelled peering directly at Wills.

He didn't knock him out but he gave Wills the worst beating he ever had taken and forced him to run out on a foul.

Sharkey wept like a child when the referee refused to let them continue. But he was forced to win on a foul.

After winning the Atlantic Fleet championship, Sharkey was matched against Biff Crowley, Pacific Fleet champion. Crowley was a 220-pounder who boasted he had gone six rounds with Dempsey in a sparring match.

They fought seven rounds and the referee, ordered an extra round, after which Sharkey's hand was raised.

When the fleet returned to Boston Sharkey's time was up and he asked for his discharge. He was asked if he wouldn't remain in the service awhile and try out with the Navy candidates for the Olympic team.

He said he needed money badly and couldn't afford to waste so much time and he decided to give up his chances for the Olympic team and pick up a little money fighting.

Three months after his discharge he had his first real professional bout and beat Eddie Record.

His real start will be related in the next chapter.

Corn Here Is 59 Per Cent

vesting has been completed in northern counties, and threshing is general throughout southern and central counties. In sections of much standing water or overflows plants rusted and grain is not plump.

Oats Generally Poor.

Missouri oats crop is 65 per cent upon 1,738,000 acres, forecasting 36,941,000 bushels against 43,460,000 bushels from 2,173,000 acres, averaging 20 bushels in 1926. The 5-year average, July condition of oats is 72 per cent and the 5-year average yield 22.9 bushels. Oats are generally poor, although a few localities have good crops. Many fields are being harvested which ordinarily would have been plowed up for other crops. Oats have fallen badly in some counties but were cut for hay.

Hay is the best prospect of our major crops, as all varieties are good, although alfalfa is least promising. Recent weather for haying has been excellent, and clover in nearly all counties is good. The condition of 90 per cent indicates 4,657,000 tons from 3,338,000 acres against 3,569,000 tons from 3,147,000 acres in 1926.

Pastures are 95 per cent, soybeans 78 per cent, cowpeas, 72 per cent, with much of the soybean and cowpea acreage planted after July 1. Missouri's 1927 cotton acreage is 307,000 acres compared to 472,000 acres in 1926, a reduction of 35 per cent.

Fruit prospects are the poorest for some time, and June apple drop was the worst in years. Condition of apples is 30 per cent; peaches 17 per cent; pears 32 per cent, and grapes 50 per cent; all seriously affected by April freezes, although some recovery is noted in grapes.

Two-Thirds Potato Crop.

Vegetables and garden crops have suffered from unfavorable season, and potatoes are 67 per cent. The commercial production in Orrick district is estimated as two-thirds of last year's 1,500 carloads. Sweet potatoes are 78 per cent.

Missouri crop prospects are below last year, and more like the July outlook for 1924 than any recent year. River bottoms have more idle land than usual, and throughout the state more cropland is idle than in many years. The final outcome of 1927 crops will be determined by weather conditions during next 40 days plus matter of question of lateness of frost.

Spiritualism Is Fraud, Says Educator-Magician at College

"Spiritualism is nothing more nor less than fraud—as far as I know," Paul Fleming, magician, said this afternoon. Mr. Fleming, who is also Dr. Fleming, professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania, will give a performance at the State Teachers College auditorium tonight. The program will open promptly at 8 o'clock, and Mr. Fleming asks that his audience be in its place at that time, since it interferes with the program for persons to be taking their seats while it is in progress.

"As far as I know, there is nothing more to spiritualism than trickery," Dr. Fleming said. "I must qualify my statement, however, by saying that it is only insofar as I know. I have made a thorough study of the subject, and have yet to see a spiritualistic performance in which there is not trickery, but of course I cannot say that there is no such thing as spiritualism."

Dr. Fleming could say, and did, however, that there is no truth that the practice of magic resolves itself around the axiom that "the hand is quicker than the eye."

"There are many slight-of-hand performers who make a big bluff and move their hands so rapidly that the audience cannot even see what the performer wants it to see. But we do not work that way. It has always been my habit to work slowly, so that the audience can see everything. I base all of the success of my performance on the science of misdirection."

Dr. Fleming will be assisted in his performance tonight by his brother, Walker Fleming, and the latter's wife. The program will be divided into three parts. The first and the third will deal with collections of magical tricks, while the second part will be made up of mind reading and pseudo-spiritualism. In this second part Mr. Fleming will reproduce certain so-called spiritual effects by trickery, and he claims that they are at least better than many acts of "true spiritualism."

Dr. Fleming is small in stature, but large in personality. He has a winning smile, and from his conversation one would readily believe that his education has been great. He is a graduate of Swarthmore College and of the University of Pennsylvania. He holds the bachelor's, master's, and doctor's degrees. When a senior at Swarthmore College he was made a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honorary scholastic fraternity, an honor conferred only on those of exceptional scholastic ability.

Dr. Fleming has been practicing magic for twenty-five years. He was a full-fledged magician of note before he went to college. Now he devotes his summers to his first calling, while in the other nine months he takes juniors and seniors at Penn U., through the different phases of economics.

Dr. Fleming and his company arrived in Maryville at noon today. Tomorrow night a performance will be given at the Kirksville State Teachers College.

Trilobite Is Latest Addition to Collection

Social Science Club Starts Display—Specimen Is Extinct Marine Animal.

The Social Science Club at the State Teachers College has started the collection of antiques that are of special historical value. One item which has been added to the collection recently and which is of much interest, is a petrified Trilobite. The speciment was contributed by Miss Lola Wolverton and is on display in the display cabinet on the second floor of the administration building at the College.

The following description of the Trilobite appears on a typewritten sheet under it: This trilobite is an extinct marine animal of the Paleozonic Age and was found in a carload of rock near Stanberry several years ago. It is probably related to the king crab of today and commonly grew to a length of one to two inches, but is known to have reached a length of two feet. The name is derived from the fact that the body is divided into three segments.

The Social Science Club meets regularly and discusses problems and questions of particular interest to people majoring in any of the social sciences, and other people interested in the sciences. The club is sponsored by members of the social science faculty at the State Teachers College. A meeting will be held tomorrow night at the college at which time the following program will be given: "Some Human Adjustments to the Geographical Environment," to be presented by Miss Beulah Scott, and "Motivating Social Science in High Schools" will be given by Miss Lois K. Halley. Both speakers are members of the State Teachers College faculty.

Paul Diss Is Home on 20-Day Furlough

Paul Diss, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Diss, arrived home unexpectedly last night from Bremerton, Wash., where his ship, the U. S. S. California, has just been put up for repairs in dry dock after an eastern cruise.

Paul enlisted in the navy in November, 1925, and is now a third class radio man. This is his second furlough home and he was given twenty days this time.

Forrest Lett of Pickering was a Maryville visitor today.
